

Sun protection at your fingertips.

Together it's easier.

Stay cool with Becker.

Direct sunlight striking your windows in the Australian summer can increase temperatures inside your house by up to 50%, making for sweltering days and restless nights. The only respite is by using air conditioning, which significantly increases your domestic power bill.

Direct rays from the sun can also cause fabrics and surfaces to fade significantly, and in extreme cases can damage flooring and furniture, deteriorate household equipment and even valued works of art.

The best and most efficient way of keeping your house cool, is by blocking the sun's rays before they pass through your windows. By regulating the amount of sun you decide to let in, BECKER AUTOMATED BLINDS keep your house substantially cooler in summer and warmer in winter. And all at the touch of a button.

Becker quality and innovation.
